INTRODUCTION

INDEX

The Classified Index of Industries and Occupations was developed primarily to define the industrial and occupational classification systems adopted for the 1990 Census of Population. It presents, for each category in the industrial and occupational classification systems, the individual titles that constitute the category. These titles can be considered a definition of their respective categories. The companion volume, the Alphabetical Index of Industries and Occupations, presents the same titles in alphabetical order. The Index includes about 21,000 industry and 30,000 occupation titles. It is a comprehensive list of specific industries and occupations developed over time and continuously updated through review of census and survey questionnaires.

The industrial and occupational classification systems for 1990 are similar to the 1980 systems.

Coverage

The basic content of the 1990 Index is derived largely from previous editions. However, about 1,000 new titles have been added to each of the industry and occupation listings. Many of the occupation titles come from the Dictionary of Occupational Titles published by the U.S. Department of Labor, Employment and Training Administration.

The Index lists industry and occupation titles reported in earlier censuses and surveys, including titles used often in the economy. However, some titles may not be listed because they are too new to be included in the Index. Some rarely used titles also are not included.

Classification Systems

The purpose of the classification systems used in this Index is to organize and to make understandable the many thousands of industries and occupations. These systems group titles describing like industries or like occupations into homogeneous categories and assign a three-digit numeric code to each category. The Classified Index lists each title in alphabetical order under the category code assigned. The accumulation of all the titles assigned thereby defines each category in the census classification systems.

Industry classification—The census industrial classification system (page XI) consists of 236 categories arranged into 13 major groups. The industry codes, which are distinct numbers from those used as occupation codes, usually end with digits 0, 1, or 2. However, there are some exceptions to this end-digit rule. The Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) system, prepared by the Office of Management and Budget and published in the *Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) Manual*¹, is the standard for industrial classification systems in the U.S. Government. The census system was developed within the frame of the SIC system. The presentation of the census system shows the equivalent SIC code(s) for each census category.

Occupation classification—The census occupational classification system has 501 separate categories arranged into 6 summary and 13 major groups (page XV). For occupations, the numeric codes usually end with digits 3 through 9.

This classification was developed to be consistent with the *1980 Standard Occupational Classification (SOC) Manual*² published by the Office of Federal Statistical Policy and Standards, then part of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Comparability—Both the industrial and occupational classification systems for 1990 are similar to the 1980 systems. The industry system has the most changes. These changes reflect the classification changes found in the 1987 SIC Manual. We added eight new industry categories and deleted two seldom used "not specified" categories. We added four new occupational categories and deleted six.

Format

This Index is divided into two sections. The first lists the industry categories and their component industry titles; the second, the occupation categories and their component titles. Industry and occupation categories are shown in the order they appear in the classification system. Titles are arranged alphabetically within each category. Many titles are followed by various abbreviations and notations, which are explained below. Users who have a copy of the Alphabetical Index, which lists the titles in alphabetical order, will find these explanations easier to understand.

²*Standard Occupational Classification Manual: 1980*. For sale by Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, DC 20402. Stock No. 041-001-00351-7.

Because the titles have been resorted into the classified categories, the original meaning of the titles may not be clear without reference to the Alphabetical Index.

1990 CENSUS QUESTIONNAIRE ITEMS

The following questions were used to collect information on industry, occupation, and class of worker in the 1990 Census of Population and Housing.

28-30. CURRENT OR MOST RECENT JOB ACTIVITY. Describe clearly this person's chief job activity or business last week. If this person had more than one job, describe the one at which this person worked the most hours. If this person had no job or business last week, give information for his/her last job or business since 1985.

28. Industry or Employer

a. For whom did this person work?
If now on active duty in the Armed Forces, fill this circle ☐ and print the branch of the Armed Forces.

(Name of company, business, or other employer)

b. What kind of business or industry was this?
Describe the activity at location where employed.

(For example: hospital, newspaper publishing, mail order house, auto engine manufacturing, retail bakery)

c. Is this mainly — Fill ONE circle

☐ Manufacturing ☐ Other (agriculture, construction, service, government, etc.)

☐ Wholesale trade

☐ Retail trade

29. Occupation

a. What kind of work was this person doing?

(For example: registered nurse, personnel manager, supervisor of order department, gasoline engine assembler, cake baker)

b. What were this person's most important activities or duties?

(For example: patient care, directing hiring policies, supervising order clerks, assembling engines, icing cakes)

30. Was this person — Fill ONE circle

☐ Employee of a PRIVATE FOR PROFIT company or business or of an individual, for wages, salary, or commissions

☒ Employee of a PRIVATE NOT-FOR-PROFIT, tax-exempt, or charitable organization

☐ Local GOVERNMENT employee (city, county, etc.)

☐ State GOVERNMENT employee

☐ Federal GOVERNMENT employee

☐ SELF-EMPLOYED in own NOT INCORPORATED business, professional practice, or firm

☐ SELF-EMPLOYED in own INCORPORATED business, professional practice, or firm ☒

☐ Working WITHOUT PAY in family business or firm

The questions relate to the same job. Although the responses to question 28 are used primarily to code industry and responses to question 29 to code occupation, in certain cases, the responses to these two and question 30 on class of worker are needed to determine the proper code for industry and/or occupation. This is explained in more detail later.

USE OF INDEX IN PROCESSING

Industry Coding

The major group title appears at the top of the page. The first category title appears in bold type at the top of the first column. It is preceded by a three-digit code. The category title is followed by the industry titles in alphabetical order. Industry titles are listed in several ways:

1. Usual title—The third category in the Index, "012 Veterinary services," begins with the usual presentation of industry titles:

Animal clinic
Animal hospital
Dog and cat hospital,
etc.

2. Indented title—In a second type of presentation, titles are indented under a caption heading. For example, two titles under the category "010—Agricultural production, crops" are:

Fruit
Orchard
Stocks growing

Both indented lines are related to "fruit."

3. Title followed by "any not listed above"—This type covers either specified or unspecified industries not shown in the preceding entries of the Alphabetical Index. For example, the Alphabetical Index lists:

Naval stores (mfg.)192
Naval stores (whsl.).....541
Naval stores, any not listed above031

The last line covers naval stores other than those located in manufacturing or wholesale trade. It is listed in the Classified Index under "031 Forestry." For this kind of entry you would need a copy of the Alphabetical Index to know which lines are excluded from the "any not listed above" line.

4. Title followed by an abbreviation—The following abbreviations are used with certain industry titles and are considered an essential part of the title:

(Const.) for such words as construction, building, excavating, etc.
(associated with industry code 060)

- (Ext.) for such words as extracting, mining, mine, well, quarry, etc.
(associated with industry codes 040-050)
- (Mfg.) for such words as manufacturing, factory, mill, plant, etc.
(associated with industry codes 100-392)
- (Ret.) For such words as retailing, retail store, retail shop, etc.
(associated with industry codes 580-691)
- (Whsl.) for such words as wholesaling, wholesale company, wholesale store, etc.
(associated with industry codes 500-571)

Occupation Titles

As in the industry section, occupation major group titles appear at the top of the page. The first occupation category appears in bold type at the top of the first column. For example, on page O-1 (the O stands for occupation), the major group title reads "EXECUTIVE, ADMINISTRATIVE, AND MANAGERIAL OCCUPATIONS" and the first category title reads "003 Legislators." The category title is followed by the occupation titles in alphabetical order.

Some occupations can be classified from question 29 of the 1990 census questionnaire without additional information. Sometimes, however, the coder must consider the industry (question 28) and class of worker (question 30) before assigning an occupation code. (See Class of Worker.) To account for those various situations, occupation titles are listed in several ways:

1. Titles with no relationship—These titles stand alone. For example, the category "008 Personnel and labor relations managers" begins with the occupation titles:

Director of industrial relations
Director of personnel
etc.

2. Titles with industry and/or class of worker relationship— This indicates that an occupation title is classified into the particular category only when accompanied by the proper industry and/or class of worker designation. There are a number of types of such relationships. In all cases, the occupation title is listed first, followed by the relationship on its right. These limitations appear in the following forms:

- a. Titles with one industry code

This indicates that the occupation title is included in that category only if the industry shown on the questionnaire is assigned the given industry code. For example, "Blending coordinator - 200" in the category "048 Chemical engineers," means that this category includes only those occupation returns of "blending coordinator" whose accompanying industry entry has been assigned code 200, "Petroleum refining."

- b. Titles with a range of industry codes

Here the occupation title is included in the category only if the accompanying industry return falls within the given industry range. For example,

"Loan teller - 700-702" in the category "383 Bank teller," means that this occupation category includes only loan tellers whose accompanying industry falls within the industry code range 700-702.

- c. Titles with several industry codes

As in the example for the industry range, the accompanying response must include one of the several industry codes given. For example, "Driller - 040, 041, 050" in the category "616 Mining machine operators," means that this category includes only those occupation entries of "driller" whose accompanying industry entry is coded 040, 041, or 050.

- d. Titles with a questionnaire entry

This means that the occupation title is included in the proper category only if the accompanying industry entry on the questionnaire is the same as the one given in the Index. For example, "Fishing guide - Fishing camp 770" in the category "461 Guides," means that this category includes occupation returns of "fishing guide" only if the industry entry on the questionnaire is "fishing camp." Code 770 is the industry code for fishing camp. In all such cases, the appropriate industry code will accompany the questionnaire entry.

- e. Titles with class of worker and industry relationships

Most of the occupation lines that have a class of worker restriction also have an industry restriction. Both must apply to the case being coded before the line can be used. An example of a class of worker restriction is "Adjuster-arbitrator—PR," the first title under "027 Personnel, training, and labor relations specialists." "PR" stands for the class of worker category "Employee of private company or business." (See other class of worker abbreviations described below.)

- f. Titles with "n.s." with industry restrictions

Some occupation titles end with the letters "n.s." (not specified). Use these lines when the occupation description is not specific. For example, "Engineer, n.s. - 042," found under "047 Petroleum engineers," means that an engineer who did not specify the type of engineer and is working in industry 042 is to be included in occupation 047.

3. Titles with "Any not listed above"—When the phrase "Any not listed above" or "Mfg. not listed above" follows a title, you must refer to the Alphabetical Index to know what lines precede this residual line. An example of an occupation residual line is "Starter—Any not listed above" found under the category "359 Dispatchers."

4. Education level—Some titles that are used by people in two different occupations are best classified by referring to the educational attainment question. For example:

Accounting work, exc. accountant, associate degree or higher023
Accounting work, exc. accountant, less than associate degree337

Persons who report the activity "accounting work" but do not report whether they are an accountant or bookkeeper are classified according to their educational level.

5. Armed Forces Occupations—The Alphabetical and Classified Indexes were designed for the civilian work force. The 1990 Census of Population was the first census since 1940 to code the occupation of the active duty military. The military occupations were coded primarily from the Military Occupation Index. Occupations that were similar to civilian jobs were classified to the civilian categories found in this Classified Index. Uniquely, military occupations were given one of three military codes (903, 904, and 905). These codes are shown at the end of the occupation listing with just examples of titles included for those codes in the Military Index. The titles are not in the Alphabetical Index.

Coding Industry From Occupation Responses

Some occupations and industries are so related that the occupation response can help a coder derive a missing industry response or revise an assigned industry code. For example:

1. Title with industry code in parentheses

Some occupations are found primarily in one industry. For them, we can instruct the coder to use the most probable industry when the industry is not reported. The codes are shown in parentheses. For example, under occupation code "187 Actors and directors" is the line "Actor- (800)." If the industry is not reported and the occupation is "actor," the industry should be coded 800. The parentheses indicate that the industry can be derived from the occupation when it is not supplied by the respondent.

2. Title with industry code in bold italic type

Under occupation code 468 is the line "Foster mother-870." The occupation code "468 Child care workers, n.e.c." is assigned to a questionnaire entry of "foster mother" regardless of the industry code, which must be changed to 870 if the industry is not already coded to that category. The bold italic type indicates that the occupation "foster mother" can occur only in industry 870; no other industry code is possible.

CLASS OF WORKER

In addition to asking for industry and occupation, most surveys ask a "class of worker" question; e.g., whether the respondent was salaried or self-employed. Assigning class of worker categories is, in most cases, independent of industry and occupation. Question 30 of the 1990 census questionnaire, reproduced on page VI, contains eight classes of workers. The coding specialist should make sure that the question has been answered and that it is consistent with the other answers about the respondent's job.

The class of worker entry can aid in coding occupation. The explanations of the class of worker abbreviations used in the occupation section of the Index are as follows:

Abbreviation	Class of Worker
PR	Working for a private company, business, or individual, for wages, salary, or commission
PR, NON	Working for a private not-for-profit, tax exempt, or charitable organization
GOV, FGOV, SGOV, LGOV	Working for Federal (including foreign and international), State, or local government
OWN, OBI ³ , OB, OBNI ⁴	Working in own business, professional practice, or farm (incorporated and not incorporated)
WP	Working without pay in a family business or farm

SURVEY QUESTIONS NOT REPORTED

Some respondents to surveys do not supply all the requested information. In the 1990 census, coders assigned a special code when industry or occupation information was not provided. Then, in computer processing, the computer assigned a code to a question left blank using an allocation procedure based on other reported characteristics. In other surveys, the allocation procedures might be different or not used. If questions left blank are to be coded, assign code 999 to a blank industry and 999 to a blank occupation.

³OBI means "own business incorporated." In tabulations, persons who report OBI are counted as working for a private-for-profit company.

⁴OBNI means "own business not incorporated."

ARMED FORCES

In 1990, active duty military personnel were coded for the first time. Each military branch was assigned a unique three-digit code for industry. These codes are listed in the Industry Classification System shown on page XIV. Most military occupations can be coded using the occupation section. Uniquely military occupations were assigned one of three code categories. These are listed at the end of the Occupational Classification System on page XXIII. A separate Military Occupation Index, which lists most military occupations, was used to code most of the Armed Forces returns. This Military Occupation Index was developed to code consistently to the Alphabetical Index. It reflects the different terminology used by the military.

CENSUS CODING SERVICE

The Bureau of the Census does industry and occupation coding for other government and private agencies on a fee basis. Data users also may purchase a "training package" that consists of this Index, detailed coding procedures, and practice exercises. Send inquiries about this service to the Chief, Labor Force Statistics Branch, Housing and Household Economic Statistics Division, Bureau of the Census, Washington, DC 20233.
